THAW FACES JUDGE IN FATEFUL FIGHT.

Young Pittsburg Millionaire's Life or Death Struggle with the Law Is Started.

GRIM SCENE IN THE COURT ROOM.

Mother, Sisters, and Wife There; Two of the Men Who Will Judge Him Are Chosen.

Two talesmen were finally accepted.

Judge decides to keep the jury sequestered till the end.

Prosecutor rejects jurors who believe in "the higher law."

Court is packed to suffocation, admitting only those directly interested and newspaper men.

The defense is said to have a big surprise in store.

The accused shows prison pallor, but seems perfectly sane.

Conduct of relatives evinces a domestic feud, as in the Molineux case.

Millionaire's mother sits between the contending parties—the young wife, with tearful eyes, accompanied by her actress friend, on one side; the Countess of Yarmouth, stolid and unmoved with her brother and Mrs. George Carnegie, on the other side.

Thaw's Career in a Nutshell.

Ran away from college when rebuked for lack of ambition.

Gave famous beauty dinner in Paris that cost him $500,000.

Disinherited by father on account of his wild ways.

Married Florence Evelyn Nesbit and kept the union a secret.

Refused shelter in New York hotel because he wouldn't admit marriage.

Stanford White, who had been a friend of Miss Nesbit, excites the rage of Thaw.

On June 25, 1906, the young man shot and killed the architect on the roof of Madison Square Garden.

New York, Jan. 24.—Harry Kendall Thaw carried back to the Tombs Prison with him last night from the courtroom, where his trial was begun yesterday, the impression of two faces which he marked well, and over which, perhaps, he pondered long before he sank to sleep on his prison cot.

They were the faces of the first two of the twelve jurymen who will pass upon his responsibility for the death of Stanford White, the famous architect, whom he shot to death last June on the roof garden of Madison Square Garden.

These two jurors were the net result of the first day of the young Pittsburg millionaire's battle for his life—by name, Deming B. Smith, a retired manufacturer, and George H. Fecke, agent for a steamship line.

From the tortuous stream of talesmen that flowed from the body of the courtroom to the stand and thence out into the busy stream of life toward which Thaw is anxiously gazing, they were selected—one in the morning session in the trial and the other in the closing minutes of the afternoon session.

They are substantial looking citizens, seriously inclined toward the duty which has been imposed upon them.

Keep Jury Sequestered.

Last night these two jurors were quartered by the state in the Broadway Central Hotel. To the surprise of every one in the courtroom, Judge Fitzgerald justified it by the importance of the issues at stake.

The selection of these two jurors was the supreme event of the first day of the drama.

In dramatic interest, however, it was far surpassed by the appearance in Court of the family of the prisoner—Mrs. William Thaw, his mother, the Countess of Yarmouth, his sister; Mrs. Carnegie, another sister; Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the young wife, and Edward Thaw, a brother of the prisoner.

To this little group of pale-faced trembling women was added the more sprightly figure of Miss May McKenzie, friend and confidante of young Mrs. Thaw, and their presence behind the prisoner throughout the two sessions of the trial, attired as they were, in somber raiment, added more of the touch of tragedy to the scene than any other one thing in the trial chamber.

Rumors of Domestic Feud.

And scarcely had the little group taken the places assigned them than there was whispered about the court indefinable rumors of a tragedy with in a tragedy—a domestic tragedy that is, perhaps, destined to move side by side with the world-wide tragedy of the Madison Square Garden roof, through all the amazing threads of this remarkable trial.

Keen observers in Justice Fitzgerald's courtroom noticed that Mrs. William Thaw sat apparently grief-stricken and wholly mute in the center of this group of five vitally interested women, and that to her left were seated her daughters, the Countess of Yarmouth and Mrs. Carnegie, while on the right were Mrs. Harry Thaw and Miss McKenzie, and while the group on the left and the group on the right separately held conferences with the mother of the man at the bar, there was no sign of recognition between the two sisters and the women on the other side.

Is the story of the Molineux trial to be acted over again?

Before the world are these five women bandied in a compact for the ransom of the imperiled one—a compact that holds together while the outside world looks on, but falls

Grim Reaper

EARLY THIS MORNING CARRIED AWAY MR. ALFRED LEE, WELL-KNOWN RETIRED BLACKSMITH OF HARRISON AVENUE.

Alfred Lee, a retired blacksmith, died at home, 210 Harrison avenue, at half past five o'clock this morning, after suffering nearly a year from dropsical trouble.

The deceased, who was a native of Marysville, Ohio, was a member of the blue lodge in Masonry and of the order of Woodmen of the World. He leaves a widow.

The remains will be interred at Woodlawn, probably with Masonic honors, but further details of the obsequies have not as yet been decided upon.

REHEARSAL AT BLUFFTON.

LODGE WITH A RECORD.

Grand Regent, M. J. Sanford, of Royal Arcanum, went to Mansfield yesterday afternoon to install the officers of Ohio Council No. 9, the oldest council in the state. This council was instituted almost thirty years ago, and has paid out more than $100,000 to the beneficiaries of its deceased members. Of the 140 councils of the state of Ohio, there are a number much larger than this one, but it is the pioneer in this state, being instituted about six weeks after Alpha Council in Boston, was instituted.

MANSFIELD JEALOUS OF HIS SUPPORT

BECAUSE LEADING WOMAN AND STAGE CARPENTER GET NOTICE IN PAPERS HE TELLS THEM THEY ARE TOO ILL TO WORK.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 24.—Because he could not "fire" every newspaper in the city, Richard Mansfield yesterday did the "Mansfieldian" thing and informed Miss Emma Dunn, his leading woman, and J. C. Stern, his stage carpenter, that they were too ill to work for him in the future.

The critics who saw "Peer Gynt" Monday night, commenced on one or two words the work of Miss Dunn as "Ase" and Stern was given credit for the slaying of a difficult production.

Mr. Mansfield took offense at seeing any but his own name in the criticisms.

Yesterday he went so far as to order that the members of his company should destroy all pictures of themselves they had with them.

Miss Clara Osmond is playing "Ase."

Stage carpenters are exhibiting a noticeable hesitancy in applying for the position left vacant by Stern's "illness."

ONE OF BIGGEST IN THE WORLD

Lima Locomotive and Machine Company's Works Will be When It Spreads Over New Real Estate

IT HAS QUIETLY ACQUIRED

Latest Acquisition is the Zurnehley Farm of 160 Acres Contiguous to Its Present Holdings.

While those who are in a position to know most about it decline to make any admissions, there are indications that Lima's largest industrial concern, which, by the way is one of the largest in northwestern Ohio, is preparing to spread itself far beyond its present size.

For several months past the Lima Locomotive and Machine company has been securing small tracts of land in what is known as Watton, lying just east of the company's big plant on the south side. Lot after lot has been purchased, one or two at a time, until the company now owns all of that part of Watton lying west of their plant and south of the Lake Erie & Western track, and between it and the Wapak road. A recent move has been the purchase of the Zurnehley farm, a tract of one hundred and sixty acres, lying west of and contiguous to its present property.

What the company is planning to do cannot officially be stated because of the reticence of its representatives.

But there is an object in view there can be no doubt. The increased acreage of its real estate gives it room for the creation of one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the world. That such a concern it will ultimately become is indicated by its uniformly steady growth in the past. That this growth will be even more apparent in the future it is only reasonable to believe and these recent purchases of realty give renewed grounds for this belief.

PINNED FOR HOURS UNDER ENGINE, LIMBS BROKEN.

Lake Shore Engineer's Rescuers Pull Him From Under Derailed Locomotive After He is Nearly Frozen by Zero Weather.

Toledo, O., Jan. 24.—While entering the city this morning, the engine of Lake Shore passenger train No. 23, from Detroit to Cleveland, was thrown from the track by the derailed at lower K, and turned over, and with the temperature ranging close to the zero point, before his rescue could be effected. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital. His condition is serious but he is expected to recover. Only the engine left the rails.

SPORT CAUSE OF A DEATH.

Excitement of Wrestling Match May Have Contributed to Demise of Young Man of Marion.

Marietta, O., Jan. 24.—Earl J. Smith, aged twenty, was found dead in his bed at the home of W. W. Woodruff early this morning. The room was filled with burnt gas, which is believed to have asphyxiated him.

Smith, who retired at midnight, after attending a wrestling match.

The theory is advanced by some that excitement due to the wrestling match might have weakened his heart and caused death. Coroner Brady will hold a post-mortem.

In the meantime the views of the Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana associations will be heard.

The committee on nominations reported nominating Henry O. Nordis of Newark, for president; J. N. Monroe, Allegheny, Pa., for vice president; F. D. Torreca, of Xaxis, for treasurer, and C. H. Lovette, Warren; M. J. Bergen, Columbus; G. W. Glass, Pittsburgh, and Joseph Murphy, Urbana, for district directors.

Many of the delegates who attended the final session were in favor of the proposal, but it was laid over for another year.

THE CONQUEST of CANAAN

By BOOTH TARKINGTON,
Author of "Cherry," "Measuring Cupcakes," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"What pretty shoes you wear! I don't think I ever felt any so pointed before."

The resenting knight took no thought of offering to help the persecuted damsel to arise; instead he tightened his grip upon the prisoner's neck until, perforate, water-not tears-started from the latter's eyes.

"You miserable little muff!" said the conqueror. "What the devil do you mean making this scene on our front lawn?"

"Why, it's Eugene!" exclaimed the helpless one. "They didn't expect you till tonight. When did you get in?"

"Just in time to give you a lesson, my back," replied Bautez grimly. "In good time for that, my playful step-brother."

He began to twist the other's wrist, a treatment of bone and ligament in the application of which schoolboys and even freshmen are often adept. Eugene made the torture acute and was apparently enjoying the work when suddenly, without any manner of warning, he received an astounding blow upon the left ear, which half stunned him for the moment and sent his hat flying and himself reeling, so great was the impact and shock of it. It was not a snap, not an open handed fush—notting like it—but a fierce, well delivered blow from a clinched fist with the shoulder behind it, and it was the girl who had given it.

"Don't you dare to touch Joe!" she cried passionately. "Don't you lay a finger on him!"

Furious and red, he staggered round to look at her.

"You watched little wildcat, what do you mean by that?" he broke out.

"Don't you touch Joe!" she panted.

"Don't you—" Her breath caught and there was a break in her voice as she faced him. She could not finish the repetition of that cry, "Don't you touch Joe!"

But there was no break in the spirit, that passion of protection which had dealt the blow. Both boys looked at her, somewhat agast.

Eugene recovered himself. Heaving round upon his heel, restored his hat to his head with precision, picked up his stick and touched his banjo case with it.

"Carry that into the house," he said indifferently to his stepbrother.

"Don't you do it!" said the girl hotly between her chattering teeth.

Eugene turned toward her, wearing the sharp edge of a smile. Not removing his eyes from her face, he proceeded with deliberation a fat silver box from a pocket, took therefrom a cigarette, replaced the box, extracted a smaller silver box from another pocket, shook out of it a fusee, slowly lit the cigarette—this in a splendid silence, which he finally broke to say languidly, but with particular distinctness:

"Ariel, go home!"

The girl's teeth stopped chattering, her lips remaining parted; she shook the hair out of her eyes and stared at him as if she did not understand, but Joe Louden, who had picked up the banjo case, obediently, burst into cheerful laughter.

"That's it, Gene," he cried gayly. "That's the way to talk to her!"

"Stow it, you young cub," replied Eugene, not turning to him. "Do you think I'm trying to be amusing?"

"I don't know what you mean by that it," Joe began, "but it!"

"I mean," interrupted the other, not relaxing his faintly smiling stare at the girl—"I mean that Ariel Tabor is to go home. Really we can't have this kind of thing occurring upon our front lawn."

The flush upon her wet cheeks deepened and became dark. Even her arm grew redder as she gazed back at him. In her eyes was patient his complete realization of the figure she cut off this bare arm, of the strown hair, of the fallen stocking, of the ragged shoulder of her blouse, of her patented short skirt, of the whole disheveled little figure. He was the master of the house, and he was sending her home as he bade children are sent home by neighbors.

The immobile, amused superiority of this proprietor of silver boxes, this wearer of strange and brilliant garments, became slightly irritated as he pointed to the fallen sleeve, a rug of red and snow, lying near her feet.

"You might take that with you?" he said interrogatively.

Her gaze had not wavered; in meeting his, but at this her eyelashes began to winkle uncontrollably, her chin to tremble. She bent over the sleeve and picked it up before Joe Louden, who had started toward her, could do for her. Then turning, her head still bent so that her face was hidden from both of them, she ran out of the gate.

Ariel ran to the next gate, which opened upon a walk leading to a shabby, meager old house of one story, with a very long, low porch, once painted white, running the full length of the front. Ariel sprang upon the porch and disappeared within the house.

Joe stood looking after her, his eyes blushing as had been. "You oughtn't to have treated her that way," he said huskily.

"Pick up that banjo case again and after the Spencer art fashion, working steadily through the afternoon and when the light grew dimmer leaning closer to his canvas to see when it had to be closed down in the room he had a student lamp with a green glass shade and placing it upon a table beside him continued to paint. Ariel's voice interrupted him at last.

"It's quitting time, grandfather," she called gently from the doorway behind him.

He sank back in his chair, conscious for the first time of how tired he had grown. I suppose so," he said, "though it seemed to me I was just getting my hand in." His eyes brightened for a moment. "I declare, I believe I've caught it a "real deal better." Come and look, Ariel. Doesn't it seem to you that I'm getting it? Those pearl shadows in the flesh!"

"I'm sure of it. Those people ought to be very proud to have it." She came to him quietly, took the palette and brushes from his hands and began to clean them, standing in the shadow behind him. "It's too good for them."

"No," he murmured in return. "You can do much better yourself. Your sketches show it."

"No, no!" she protested quickly.

"Yes, they do, and I wondered if it was only because you were young. But those I did when I was young are almost the same as the ones I paint now. I haven't learned much. There hasn't been any one to show me. And you can't learn from print, never! Yet I've grown in what I see—grown so that the world is full of beauty to me that I never dreamed of seeing when I began. But I can't paint it. I can't get it on the canvas. Ah, I think I might have known how to if I hadn't had to teach myself. If I could only have seen how some of the other fellows did their work. If I'd ever saved money to get away from Canaan—if I could have gone away from it and come back knowing how to paint it—if I could have got to Paris for just one month! Paris for just one month!"

"Perhaps we will. You can't tell what may happen." It was always her reply to this cry of his.

"You're young, you're young." He smiled indulgently. "What were you doing all this afternoon, child?"

"In my room, trying to make over mamma's wedding dress for tonight."

"Tonight?"

"Mamie Pike invited me to a dance at their house."

"Very well. I put it on that ground," he said, not seeing the faintly bitter smile that came to her face.

"I suppose it will seem so to Canaan," returned the other wearily. "Given or feeling it?"

"I never saw him," she replied, then caught him by the shoulders. "Oh I see what you mean! Yes, he's all right."

They had come into the hall, and Joe saw Eugene leaning the long coat on while his stepbrother looked at him thoughtfully.

"Gene," asked the latter in a soft voice, "have you seen Mamie Pike yet?"

"I don't know. Perhaps it's because I don't dress very well." Then, as he made a sorrowful gesture, she cut him off before he could speak. "Oh, it isn't altogether because we're poor. It's more I don't know how to wear what I've got, the way some girls do. I never cared much—and well, I'm not worrying, Roger. And I think I've done a good deal with mamma's dress. It's a very grand dress. I wonder I never thought of wearing it until today. I may be—"she laughed and blushed—"I may be the belle of the ball—who knows!"

"You'll want me to walk over with you and come for you afterward, I expect."

"Only to take me. It may be late when I come away—if a good many should ask me to do it for once. Of course I could come home alone. But Joe Louden is going to sort of hang around outside, and he'll meet me at the gate and see me safe home."

"Oh!" he exclaimed blankly.

"Isn't it all right?"

"I think I'd better come for you," he answered gently. "The truth is, I—I think you'd better not be with Joe Louden a great deal."

"Well, he doesn't seem a vicious boy to me, but I'm afraid he's getting either a bad name, my dear."

"He's not getting one," she said gravely. "He's already got one. He's

"Why?"

Both knew that the question was needless, but Joe answered gently.

"Oh, no, of course not. He leaned over and remarked with one foot as to fasten a loose shoestring. "She wouldn't be very likely to ask me."

"Well, what about it?"

"Only that—Ariel Tabor's going."

"Indeed!" Eugene paused on the stairs, which he had begun to ascend.

"Very interesting."

"I thought," continued Joe hopefully, straightening up to look at him, "that maybe you'd dance with her—I don't believe many will ask her—I'm afraid they won't—and if you would, even only once, it would kind of make up for—"he faltered "for out there," he added, nodding his head in the direction of the gate.

"Only to take me. It may be late when I come away—if a good many should ask me to do it for once. Of course I could come home alone. But Joe Louden is going to sort of hang around outside, and he'll meet me at the gate and see me safe home."

SMITH AND SHERRICK

Are Awarded Contract for the Erection of the Carnegie Library Building, Their Bid Being $25,460.

FIGURES FAR BELOW ESTIMATE

Same Firm Will Install all Plumbing and Heating Apparatus--Edifice to be Finished by Oct. 15.

The Board of Library Trustees the building was placed at $25,000. Yesterday opened the bids submitted for the erection of the new Carnegie Library building to be located on the northeast corner of McDonald and West Market streets.

Bids upon the general contract were as follows: Smith & Sherrick, Lima, $25,460; The Henry J. Spieker Co., Toledo, $25,365.74; Staples and DeWitt, Lima, $25,478.10; Val Hall, Lima, $27,711. Elliott W. Darling, further bids on hardware, light fixtures, cork carpet, art glass, and decoration. Representatives of library furniture were here, but that important feature of the case was deferred for further consideration, as was the seating of the auditorium.

The contracts were let at a less figure than was expected, so that it is thought the adjustment to a total cost of $30,000 of the amount of Mr. Carnegie's gift, will be no very difficult matter.

THE NEW LIBRARY BUILDING.

Debt, $27,838. Smith & Sherrick were $2,254 less than the next lowest bidder, and were awarded the contract. The figures of the other contractors were remarkably close. The successful bidders offered to complete their bidding by October 15, 1907 and will begin operations once certain amendments were made involving additions and deductions in the contract price for full matter.

Story With A Moral

"I wish to testify to the efficiency of your paper as an advertising medium," writes Mr. F. W. Boettcher, a prominent real estate and lumber dealer of Aberdeen, S. D. "I enclose you under separate cover a copy of the Daily News of Aberdeen, in which I have marked an article that will explain my meaning."

The article in question is as follows:

"Either somebody has been putting up a job on F. W. Boettcher, the well known land man and banker of Aberdeen, or a joke has been put up on a trusting maiden in Lima, Ohio, this morning. Mr. Boettcher received a letter from that city, of which the following is a verbatim copy:

"Kind sir: Learning your name from a friend of yours and mine should like to correspond with you if you do not want to correspond with me please send me the names of some other cow-boy. A friend of mine shall write to any friend of yours you wish to speak of."

"Must close, so please answer this as soon as receiving it. I shall describe my self and friend in next letter. Yours truly,

Your unknown friend."

The name of the young woman and her address in Lima, are attached. They are omitted for obvious reasons. Mr. Boettcher is willing to turn the correspondence over to any other cow-boy who wishes to enter into correspondence with the young woman."

This certainly shows how generally the classified advertisements in the LIMA DAILY NEWS are read and that they accomplish even more than is modestly claimed for them. Mr. Boettcher inserted an advertisement of a ranch he has for sale and is put in the way of getting some one to help him run the ranch. The moral is too obvious to require elucidation.

SPLENDID CHANCE

To Secure Beautiful Residence Site At Bargain Price.

I have two lots and an option on the adjoining lot on the south side of Lakewood Avenue, and adjacent to the beautiful home of R. L. Bates, and they front up against the park grove. As they now stand, they are too narrow for a suburban home, each being but 45 feet wide. I will sell the east lot and one-half of the middle lot for $1,500, or the other half of the middle lot for $450, and give you the option which I have, making this one $1,450. The option being at $1000, being the lowest price obtainable. Lakewood Avenue has an asphalt pavement; a home here will afford all the advantages of a rural home, and yet have the advantage of being in the city, the car line runs within 600 feet of your front door, just far enough away to be away from the noise and dust. Think this over and let me know.

The Whitney & Currier Co. desire to dispose of every discontinued style and sample piano in their ware rooms at 211-212 W. High street and in order to do this previous to taking inventory Feb. 1st they are offering some remarkable piano bargains.

AMUSEMENTS.

With Miss Irma LaPierre in the title role, "The College Widow" will be seen at the Faurot Opera House tomorrow night, where it is expected to add another triumph to its already long list of successes. Everywhere both Mr. Ade's play, and Mr. Savage's artists have earned enthusiastic adjectives seldom applicable to theatrical enterprises, and the approving verdict of the public has been ratified by the unsighted enthusiasm of the press. Since her premiere bow to the theatre-going public, "The Widow" has played nearly everywhere with happy results. Even in the South, where the football vogue is not so popular an institution as elsewhere, took so kindly to the Ade comedy that new records for receipts were made and the enthusiasm aroused was on a parallel. In fact the comedy has met with a series of ovations which justifies the claim of the management that "The College Widow" is the most successful American comedy of all time.

The cheery, fun-loving students, the pretty, and daintily attractive "Widow", the quaint comedy character impersonations, and the thrilling football scene, captivate the interest and claim the closest attention of the audience from the rise of the curtain to the final scene in the last act.

Lima Is Very Healthful

As Shown by the Reports Submitted to the Board of Health—Only 326 Deaths in Year of 1906.

At last night's called meeting of the Lima Board of Health the annual report of Health Officer Jones was submitted. It is peculiar to note that the number of deaths for the past year was exactly the same as the number in 1905. The total each year was 326.

Out of this number there were 10 deaths from typhoid fever, 4 males and 6 females; malarial fever, 2 males and 1 female; diphtheria and membranous croup, 8—4 of either sex. One of either sex died of la grange while appendicitis caused the demise of 7, of which 3 were males and 4 females.

Consumption was the cause of more deaths than any other closely defined disease. The real pulmonary tuberculosis resulted in the death of 37 Lima people—15 of them being males and the other 22 females. However, this number was three less than the total in 1905, 40, dying from that disease in that year. Other forms of lung trouble caused the death of 5.

To cancer is due the death of 11, exactly the same number that died that trouble the year before while rheumatism and gout caused the death of but 3. This was six less than died of the same maladies in 1905. The lives of 11 were ended by simple meningitis and 9 are due to apoplexy. Convulsions in infancy killed 4, and 10 were due to other nervous disorders.

Organic heart trouble resulted in the death of 20 and others passed away from other forms of circulatory affections. Bronchitis caused the death of 1 and diphtheria is second of the curtain to the final scene in the last act.

Besides Miss LaPierre, the cast will include Miss Florence Auer, Miss Pearl Abbott, Miss Minna Ferry, Miss Mary Mailon, Miss Esther Boggs, Hellett Thompson, Thos. P. Hoier, Wm. Cullington, Russell Simpson, John P. Brown, Frank H. LaRue, Jos. Redman, Royal Tracy, and others.

By Miami County Commissioners,
Who Reimbursed Sheriff Expenses
Incurred Travelling on Steam and Electric Roads.

The matter of the payment of the sheriff's actual expenses while acting in his line of duty came before the commissioners of Miami county Monday and acting upon the advice of Prosecutor Campbell the board passed a resolution reimbursing the sheriff for expenses incurred traveling on the electric and steam railroads and directing that a horse and buggy be purchased for the use of the sheriff's office.

The sheriff will be required to furnish the board an itemized account of his expenses along with his quarterly report. This action of the commissioners is a direct slap at the state bureau of accounting, says the Piqua Leader-Dispatch, and is taken to indicate that the board will hereafter interpret the laws according to its own notion, by and with the advice of the county's lawyer, and ignore the mandates of the state bureau.

OBJECTS TO KNIFE

And Patient at City Hospital Will Probably Die—Maurice Silverman, A Toledo Hebrew, Will Not Consent to Surgical Operation.

Maurice Silverman, 29, a Hebrew, who gives his home as Toledo, is a patient at the city hospital, where it is believed he will soon die unless he submits to a surgical operation, which he has so far refused to do.

Silverman was taken from a C. H. & D. train Tuesday because of his illness and later was sent to the hospital by the police. Before the department surgeon could reach his bedside, however, he got up and left the institution. The police again took charge of him and returned him to a ward, and this time the attendants succeeded in keeping him there.

Silverman says that within the past few years he has submitted to no less than five surgical operations for the removal of obstructions of the bowels, from which he is again a sufferer, and as his condition has reached a most critical stage, a sixth surgical operation seems to be the only manner of avoiding speedy death. However, Silverman strenuously objects to submitting to another application of the knife.

As the hospital authorities cannot and will not resort to force in order to relieve him, it is possible that death will soon ensue.

Later—it was announced at the hospital this afternoon that Silverman's condition had taken a turn for the better.

WATERS OF THE SCIO.

Marion, O. Jan 24.—The remarkable presence of mind and bravery of little Gladys Henry, aged 13 years, of Prospect, saved her 13-year-old chum, Clara Lowery, from drowning in the Scioto.

The girls were on the Prospect bridge watching the debris floating down stream. The Lowery girl leaned too far over the railing and fell into the water. The Henry girl sped across the bridge and reaching down caught the skirts of her chum as she passed under, the water being within a foot or two of the bridge. Unable to lift her from the water, the Henry girl screamed for help and managed to hold on until assistance arrived.

The creek was much swollen and when several miles north of Bluffton the frail craft caught on a submerged barbed wire strung across the creek and capsized, throwing the young men into the water.

Mohler floated down stream for a considerable distance, finally landing in the top of a thorn tree, where he gained strength enough to reach shore. His hands were badly lacerated by the thorns. Platner and Herr succeeded in finally reaching the wire which caused the mishap, and held on until rescued by nearby farmers. They were completely exhausted.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY EU-REKA LODGE NO. 1820.

Heart Disease

is caused by acid隋ure and excretion from your blood lodging on the edges of your heart valves so that they cannot open and close properly. Your heart action becomes irregular, because part of your blood leaks back—acting in the same way as water in the leaky valve of a pump—these crystals may be deposited in the walls of the heart. The heart is slow to give the disease-signal of pain. So if you feel the least unpleasant sensation in or about your heart, beware of heart disease.

There is only one way to clear your system of uric acid and be save from its death-dealing effects. You must give your blood something that will dissolve and throw out the uric acid crystals, wherever they may be. LIFE PLANT has this power. LIFE PLANT is Nature's own remedy for uric acid diseases. And because it is Nature's own remedy, it is as safe as it is sure. LIFE PLANT gently washes away the uric acid sand which irritates and interferes with your heart, or any other organ or part of your body. Read what the Hon. D. J. Myers, of Circleville, O., writes:

"I regard your LIFE PLANT I heartily endorse it as the best medicine on the market. I invite any sufficient to write me for further information at Circleville, Ohio."

No matter what ailment you may be suffering from, write your symptoms fully to I. J. Mizer, M. D., President of the Life Plant Co., Canton, O., and he will send you his personal book—GOOD HEALTH—valuable free to anyone on request.

The inspiring motive of the opposition of New would seem to be the fact that his selection meets with the approval of Mr. Roosevelt. There is now hardly an attempt to deny the existence of a well-organized movement to wrest control of the Republican organization from Mr. Roosevelt and his immediate followers, and the chances are the chairmanship was seized upon as a favorable opportunity to make a first stand. Even should the senate cabal be defeated, it would serve to call attention to the fact that there was opposition to the president within the Republican ranks, and it is believed that when the time came for another test many who now secretly oppose the president but are faint-hearted would be found in the anti-Roosevelt camp.—Lima Advertiser.

It is therefore, Resolved that our charter be draped for the period of thirty (30) days and these resolutions be spread upon the lodge minutes and given to the city papers for publication and a copy sent to the bereaved family. While we enter largely into their sorrow we feel that we cannot do or say anything that will in any way console them in their irreparable loss. Be it further resolved, that we commend them to God who is the only one that can comfort them in their inexpressible sorrow.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

When You Have the Whip By the Handle Keep It.

Washington, Jan 24.—Postmaster General Cortelyou's resignation from the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee and his designation of Col. Harry S. New as acting chairman was at first looked upon as a political ten-strike, but it now seems as if the sailing might not be smooth as had been planned. Senator Scott of West Virginia, Senator Heburn, of Idaho, and other anti-Roosevelt Republicans are determined that the president and Mr. Cortelyou shall at least have a fight on their hand.

When Col. New received word of his appointment as acting chairman he straightway announced that he would call no special meeting of the committee, which would leave him to continue as acting chairman until just prior to the next national convention. It is contended by Senators Scott and Heburn and their adherents that Mr. Cortelyou was without authority to turn the chairmanship over to another until his resignation had been accepted by the committee, and even then that it was for the committee and not the retiring chairman to nominate his successor. The chairman's relations to the committee, they insist, are the same as those of the president of a corporation to the board of directors, and no one would contend that a corporate president could retire and designate his successor without consulting the board.

A petition is being circulated by Senator Scott, who is the West Virginia member of the committee, calling a special meeting for some time in February, "to act on the resignation of Chairman Cortelyou, and transact other business," the other business being, of course, the selection of Cortelyou's successor. The signatures of as many committee members as possible will be secured, but opinion here is that a majority cannot be gotten and that therefore no special meeting will be held. Mr. Cortelyou will oppose the calling of a special meeting and in this he will have the support of the president. Their combined influence, it is said, will prevail.

There is a good deal of speculation as to the reasons for the strenuous activity of Senator Scott and others in the matter, and the theory is often advanced that it is in the interest of the presidential candidacy of Vice President Fairbanks. Col. New is not counted as specially friendly to Mr. Fairbanks and it certainly would not help Fairbanks to have an unfriendly Indianian at the head of the national committee. An analysis of the movement, however, does not bear out this proposition. It is true Senator Scott is counted a Fairbanks man, but there are others just as active who belong to entirely different camps. Some of the men most energetic in trying to checkmate the plan of Mr. Cortelyou and the president are known to be committed to Senator Foraker, of Ohio, as presidential candidate.

The inspiring motive of the opposition of New would seem to be the fact that his selection meets with the approval of Mr. Roosevelt. There is now hardly an attempt to deny the existence of a well-organized movement to wrest control of the Republican organization from Mr. Roosevelt and his immediate followers, and the chances are the chairmanship was seized upon as a favorable opportunity to make a first stand. Even should the senate cabal be defeated, it would serve to call attention to the fact that there was opposition to the president within the Republican ranks, and it is believed that when the time came for another test many who now secretly oppose the president but are faint-hearted would be found in the anti-Roosevelt camp.—Lima Advertiser.

LIMA TEAM

Of Polo Players Vanquished By the Delphos Team in a Contest at the Latter Place Tuesday Night,

(Delphos Herald.)

A polo team from Lima and the Delphos team played a game at the Manmuth rink, Tuesday evening. A full-sized crowd witnessed the game, but the enthusiasm which characterized the Delphos-Van Wert game about two weeks ago, was lacking on account of the Delphos players being superior to their opponents. The Delphos boys seemed to have the best of the game all through and did some nice playing. The Lima team did not play together, their play lacking team work. Only once during the entire game was the ball in danger at the Delphos goal and then Lima succeeded in getting the ball into the cage. The Delphos boys got the ball into the cage eight times finishing the game with a score of 8 to 1. Meyers, an employe at the Can Factory, acted as referee of the game.

GUS KALB

Reappointed On The Sinking Fund Board

Mayor Robb evidently appreciates the good work done by Gus Kalb on the Board of Sinking Fund Trustees and Tax Commissioners, as he re-appointed him for a term ending in January 1911. This board handles the city's heaviest financial transactions and it is gratifying to see some of our best citizens giving the time and attention to the matters for an honorary compensation. The other members of the board are Dr. T. K. Jacobs, W. L. Mackenzie, and E. A. Dean.

NO POLICE COURT.

Because of the absence of the mayor who as chairman of the Board of Health is at Columbus today, there was no session of the police court this morning.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.

Calvin Pearl Neiswander, 23, machinist, and Bertha Elizabeth Wethill, 23, both of Lima.

VAUDEVILLE MANAGERS

Four States and Twenty-Three Cities Organize an Association for their Mutual Benefit.

GUS SUN IS TO DO THE BOOKING.

Object is to Give Longer Employment to Performers and Engage Them at Reasonable Terms.

Vaudeville managers from 23 cities in four states have just formed an organization known as the National Vaudeville Managers' association.

Gus Sun, proprietor of the popular Orpheum theatre of this city, was made amusement director and will be charge of the booking for the entire circuit.

The object of the association is to give longer employment to the players in their theatres so they can be secured at more reasonable prices, providing better shows at each city. Hereafter a show which has week's work here will move complete to all the other cities in the circuit in turn. Meetings will be held every three months and one meeting is called for early in May for the purpose of forming a stock company for the purchase of picture machine films. It is proposed to contract for the entire output of three factories and stop renting the films as now.

The association will work in connection with the western Vaudeville
